Dear Ms. Napolis:

Thank you for your letter and enclosures of January 2, 2008, in which you, under the pseudonym "Ellen Geykus," expressed your disagreement with the conclusions of a study directed by a UC Davis faculty member and published in 1994. I acknowledge your disagreement. However, I note that neither your letter nor your detailed critique provide evidence that the faculty member engaged in research misconduct, improper governmental activities, or any other violation of the University of California Faculty Code of Conduct.

I conclude that the University has no basis for further administrative review of the matters raised in your correspondence, and I intend to take no further action in regard to these matters. I and campus law enforcement authorities have advised the faculty member mentioned in your letter not to contact you. Finally, I ask that you stop trying to contact the faculty member, as there is no purpose to further communication between the two of you.

Sincerely,

Robert J. Loessberg-Zahl
Assistant Executive Vice Chancellor
Locally Designated Official
